Festival of Books Finale Features Bestselling Author

Jayne Anne Phillips was born and raised in West Virginia. The author of five award winning novels and two short story collections will be the keynote speaker at the finale of the third annual Upper Ohio Valley Festival of Books this Saturday, November 12 at 1 pm at the Ohio County Public Library.

Phillips will be reading from her fifth novel, Quiet Dell, which is based on the true story of the infamous 1931 murders committed in a hamlet of the same name near her hometown in West Virginia by con man Harry Powers. The tragedy was one of the first nationally sensationalized crimes in America. A mesmerizing retelling of a harrowing true crime, Quiet Dell is a triumph.

Phillip's works have been translated and published in twelve foreign languages. She is the recipient of a Guggenheim Fellowship, two National Endowment for the Arts Fellowships, a Howard Fellowship, and a Bunting Fellowship. She has taught at Williams College, Boston University, Harvard University, and Brandeis University, and is currently Distinguished Professor of English and Director of the Rutgers Newark MFA Program at Rutgers-Newark, the State University of New Jersey.

The Upper Ohio Valley Festival of Books is presented by the City of Wheeling Arts and Cultural Commission, in partnership with the Ohio County Public Library, the Elbin Library at West Liberty University, and the Wheeling National Heritage Area. The idea for the festival grows from the Wheeling Arts Commission and its work to support, nurture, and promote all the arts in the greater Wheeling area and specifically to promote an interest in regional books, authors and publishing.

All Upper Ohio Valley Festival of Books programs and workshops are free and open to the public. For more information, visit the festival's Facebook page at www.facebook.com/ uovbookfest.

The festival is presented with financial assistance from the West Virginia Humanities Council, a state affiliate of the National Endowment for the Humanities. Any views, findings, conclusions or recommendations do not necessarily represent those of the West Virginia Humanities Council or the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Additional funding for the Upper Ohio Valley Festival of Books has been provided by the West Virginia Library Commission and the Center for the Book and private donors. The project is supported in part by the U.S. Institute of Museum and Library Services under the provisions of the Library Services and Technology Act, administered in West Virginia by the State Librarian.
